

HACCP (Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point)

SAC consultants throughout Scotland are qualified to carry out HACCPs (Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point) for the food industry.

Everyone in the food chain is duty bound to ensure produce does not become contaminated with pathogens, objects or substances which could harm health. Retail customers and Quality Assurance Schemes regularly request written evidence that systems are in place to reduce the risks.

SAC has helped companies through BRC (British Retail Consortium) audits to allow them to pack fruit and vegetables for direct dispatch to supermarkets.

We will visit your business premises and work with your staff to identify where the risks are and to put controls in place to prevent food contamination. We will help you put systems in place to monitor the risk areas.

SAC consultants can help you identify and eliminate problems in the following areas:

- Contamination – to reduce the risk of contamination by food poisoning pathogens, foreign objects and fuels and oils.
- Quality – to improve quality through correct handling and storage methods.
- Damage – to reduce damage through better handling and storage.
